Testimonials

I am grateful to the team at Red Pen for their guidance and support throughout my master's application journey. From helping me identify the right universities to guiding me through every stage of the application process, their team made the entire experience structured and manageable. With their support, I was fortunate to receive admission offers from NYU Stern - NYU Shanghai, NUS and HKUST. I had the opportunity to work closely with Tripti ma'am and Anagha ma'am, who supported me consistently during the process. Anagha ma'am regularly scheduled calls to review our progress, which helped keep everything clear and well organized.

I am also thankful to Nimisha ma'am and Archana ma'am for their support with my essays. One of the most memorable parts of the process was working on my six-picture personal essay for NYU, where we spent time brainstorming and refining ideas so that the final essay genuinely reflected my story.

Thank you to Anagha ma'am, Tripti ma'am, Nimisha ma'am and Archana ma'am, and the entire Red Pen team for your guidance and encouragement throughout this journey.

The Red Pen have a team of amazing women who helped me at every stage of the application with great guidance and empathy. Not only was their feedback invaluable, the team's process of having a different person with expertise for every stage of the application emphasised this. I also appreciate that they were able to recognise my profile and allow me to play to my strengths and assist me where I lacked, and therefore make the process collaborative and creative I'm very grateful to have been recommended this team because without their help I would have had a very different journey while navigating my applications.

V.T.

When I first started my study-abroad application journey, it honestly felt overwhelming there were so many moving parts, from choosing universities to essays, timelines, and decisions. Working with Team Red Pen completely changed that experience for me. From the beginning, they took the time to understand my goals and what I really wanted for my future. Through regular weekly check-ins, they helped me break everything down and plan the entire process in a very structured and thoughtful way. What initially felt chaotic slowly started to feel clear and manageable. I'm especially grateful to Anagha for her guidance and perspective throughout the journey. Archana and Nimisha were incredibly patient while helping me refine my applications and essays so that my story came through authentically. And Tripti, truly the captain of the ship, made sure everything stayed organised and on track at every step. Looking back, their support played a huge role in helping me secure admission to my dream university. If you're planning to study abroad and want a process that feels clear, structured, and genuinely supportive, Team Red Pen is the place to start.

I'd want you to know that your team is extremely knowledgeable, supportive, and genuinely invested in helping students succeed. The consultants are approachable, responsive, and provide clear, thoughtful guidance throughout the entire study abroad process. Their resources and personalized approach make a complex journey feel much more manageable. I would highly recommend Red Pen to anyone planning to study abroad!

H.V.

I highly recommend The Red Pen to all those who plan to pursue a masters abroad. They helped me get into some of my top choices and ensured that every document sent was thoroughly thought through and drafted. They give great importance to mental health and well being as well. Choosing them is a no-brainer!
